

Lee C. Rogers, DPM

Dr. Lee Rogers is the Chief of Podiatry and Associate Professor of Orthopaedics at University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio. He is the Louis T. Bogy endowed professor of podiatric medicine and surgery at UT. He has authored over 150 published papers, books, and book chapters on limb salvage and policy and practice and he has delivered more than 500 lectures around the world.

Dr. Rogers is the Immediate Past President of the American Board of Podiatric Medicine, an Associate Editor of the Journal of the American Podiatric Medical Association, and Vice President of the International Federation of Podiatrists. He is also Fellow Faculty in Podiatric Medicine at the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Glasgow in Scotland.